Update

---

Hi there,

Sorry about all the things I'm worried about... I don't want to do any damage to you, and I wanted to play within your ballpark basically. That's why I was asking you the right thing to do. It's clear to me now that the only right thing to do is keep my nose clean, stay the course, and just let it go. I have had numerous people already ask me "what did Chris do", and other people say that they knew we weren't "right" because of the way he treated me. I was so oblivious. I know why I was so unhappy now.

The only thing left is to deal with the dog. I've been avoiding this for months now, but I've also known for months I needed to let her go. She's lost control of her ass, and she is starting to show signs of dementia (staring into corners, walking into trees). I can't move her into where I'm going, and I can barely take care of her right now. So... I have to let her go. I'm going to schedule the appointment this morning.

I'm anxious to get on with this. I only have 5 more days of this. Just so hard, and I'm trying so much to do the right thing.

I pick up my Mini next Friday. Do you know how empowering that felt to walk into a BMW dealership and just buy a car??? They didn't ask for paycheck stubs, nothing, they just approved me. End of story. They also allowed me to "borrow" the FJ to get my stuff moved next week.

Are you guys coming up to the Bay Area before Miami?

Okay DJ, things are still jacked up here right now, but things are changing soon. I am ready. I'm tired of this.

kim
